John McGinn, 7, of Jordan, left, wants to be a farmer when he grows up. Owners of Hourigan's Dairy farm, family friends of the McGinn family, grew a few acres of sweet corn on John's behalf so he could harvest and market it. When John found out that a family that goes to his church, St. Patrick's Church, in Jordan, is requesting donations because the father needs a heart transplant, he asked if he could sell the corn and give them the profit. He is shown outside his house at his stand with a sign his dad made. Michelle Gabel/The Post-Standard
